The South-
West Christmas
Without Cruelty Fayre

Last year, Animal Aid's groundbreaking Christmas Without Cruelty Fayre came to Exeter for the first time, attracting hundreds of visitors from across the region. Such was the success of the event that in 2008 this fantastic festival of compassionate living is returning to the South-West!

What's on offer?

The Fayre offers a unique opportunity to buy all your Christmas gifts in one day and to know that your purchases do not cause harm to animals, humans or the environment. Only organisations or companies that are campaigning for a kinder and less violent world are invited, so every purchase you make will also be going to a worthy cause.

Whether it's fairtrade clothing, cruelty-free cosmetics, Christmas cards, handmade chocolates or renewable energy products you're after, the Christmas Without Cruelty Fayre is the perfect place to find them. It also offers a great day out, a warm and friendly atmosphere, delicious veggie food, music, natural therapies and information on a wide range of important issues. And entrance is free.

If you're interested in cruelty-free living and are concerned about animal protection, green issues and human rights – then don't miss the South West Christmas Without Cruelty Fayre!

The Christmas Without Cruelty Fayre is organised by Animal Aid
